Voice for Performance: An Introduction (online)

PROFILE

Emily initially trained as an actress, gaining a BA Hons Degree in Acting For Stage & Media from the London College of Music, before discovering her true passion lay with voice and accents.

In 2017 she completed her Master's Degree in Voice Studies from the Royal Central School of Speech & Drama, and since then she has taught both actors and professional voice users here in London, and internationally. She has taught Voice, Text and Accents within a variety of drama schools, universities and actor training programmes, including; The University of West London, the Royal Central School of Speech & Drama, Fourth Monkey, City Academy, Actors Temple and Italia Conti. She also works closely with individuals working on voice, accent, communication and presentation skills.
